

Professional statement

I'm a computer science student passionate about digital trust and resilience. I have a fervent interest in the intersecting realms of cutting-edge cybersecurity and blockchain technology. My academic pursuits and personal projects have equipped me with a solid foundation in cryptography, network security, and blockchain architecture. My aim is to leverage these competencies to advance secure blockchain implementations and contribute to the dynamic landscape of cybersecurity.